ABSTRACT: Human Capital Management (HCM) is more and more an issue of how to optimize the application of technology tools to create value in workforce management. Oracle Fusion HCM is a cloud single-platform solution that consolidates much disparate HR functionality in a single system to achieve the value of talent acquisition, payroll, workforce analytics, and compliance management. This is a report on the Functional Consultant position in planning Oracle Fusion HCM organizational requirements, primary modules provided, implementation issues, and future trends of workforce management. The research illustrates how Oracle Fusion HCM is surfacing with AI-driven intelligence, automation and flexibility and has turned out to be an indispensable toolkit for organizations across the world.
